theScreener launches a new fund & ETF analysis service

Switzerland (ots) -

In a time when funds and ETFs are being traded more actively than ever, theScreener, market leader in independent stock analysis, launches a new service by evaluating funds and ETFs in a directly comparable way. For the first time, it is possible to comprehensively recognize where passive investments beat active ones and vice versa.

The Swiss provider of financial analyses, whose evaluations have historically shown above-average performance, is thus extending its range of services to 15,000 funds and ETFs that can be compared by applying the same analytical criteria.

theScreener is dedicated to providing investors with the world's best financial decision-making tools. As the fund evaluations are updated weekly, investors can easily spot the best and/or worst performing funds, and make their portfolio adjustments in a most timely fashion.

"A special feature of our new service is that we also analyze new funds. By adjusting our ratings every week we give our customers the advantage of investing in funds and ETFs that perform," says Alain Farwagi, Director at theScreener.

By offering fund and ETF analysis through financial portals, banks and e-brokers, investors can now gain access to up-to-date evaluations.
