CROWDLITOKEN becomes officially tradable - Digital assets become more and more tangible

CROWDLITOKEN AG is one of the first third-party providers to join the new platform "SygnEx" of Sygnum Bank, a regulated trading system for digital assets. With Sygnum Bank's platform, CROWDLITOKEN will be able to use the custody services and trading platform for its digital real estate bonds (CRT).

With the launch of SygnEx, CROWDLITOKEN will have a practical, legally compliant trading platform for its digital bonds. In addition, CROWDLITOKEN will be able to offer its investors a custody option for their CRT bonds in the future.

"Until now, there has been no regulated end-to-end solution for digital assets. By using Sygnum's digital asset custody and trading platform, we can take full advantage of our real estate tokens," said Domenic Kurt, CEO of CROWDLITOKEN AG.

Two companies, one mission - establishing digital assets

With the mission to make real estate investments possible for everyone, the Fintech based in Liechtenstein has found the perfect partner with the same mission. CROWDLITOKEN's investors can invest in high-quality Swiss real estate from as little as 100 CHF/EUR. Sygnum Bank's solution now takes its mission to democratise the investment world one step further.
