Former Swiss Life top manager joins CROWDLITOKEN

Remo Weibel nominated as member of the Board of Directors of CROWDLI AG

Remo Weibel has been nominated as member of the Board of Directors of CROWDLI AG in Frauenfeld, Switzerland; The 47-year-old from Zug held various positions at Swiss Life Select from 1995 onwards: In 2010 he became CEO, and from 2012 on he was also a member of the Executive Board of Swiss Life Switzerland Ltd. Weibel is considered a financial product specialist and has an outstanding network in Europe. With his immense experience, he will focus on supporting the distribution of the subsidiary CROWDLITOKEN AG.

"CROWDLI's business model, especially CROWDLITOKEN's evolutionary product, has totally convinced me", says Remo Weibel explaining the reason for his upcoming involvement with the Liechtenstein-based Fintech company, which issues a digital bond for European real estate. "I want to be where the future of the financial sector is shaped." The former CEO of Swiss Life Select, a company specialising in comprehensive financial planning for private clients, believes one hundred percent in the digital transformation of the financial sector. CROWDLITOKEN is expected to sell 100 million tokens to private or institutional investors by the end of the year, and new projects are already in the pipeline.

"Remo Weibel is another dream transfer for continuing to strengthen our partnerships with financial institutions at the highest level," says a delighted Domenic Kurt, CEO of CROWDLI and CROWDLITOKEN AG. Already in October he was able to present a "big name" as a new member of the Board of Directors in the person of former Credit Suisse CFO Renato Fassbind. "Renato has given us a boost, and with Remo, our young team is getting extra energy once again," says Kurt. "These prominent additions show that our company has launched a high-quality financial product with immense potential".
